17TH SEPTEMBER

Cataclysmic events like wars and pandemics have considerable impacts on the nature of cultural productions that follow. In the wake of such events art and literature usually undergo tremendous transmutations, both structurally and thematically.
This webinar seeks to unravel the complex relationship between catastrophe and culture by embarking on an archaeological investigation and tries to explicate how literature structures itself to accommodate the reverberations produced by such events.
